

Parent Institute for Quality Education (CA) $943,493 proposes to provide training and TA to educators, families, and aligned organizations with the objective of enhancing family engagement policies and processes. PIQE plans to create a statewide advisory committee to inform the project, and with key partners California Department of Education and the National Association for Family, School, and Community Engagement (NAFSCE), create a statewide family engagement framework. Anticipated outcomes include increases in implementation of family engagement programs, participation from family members in their students' education, capacity at the local- and state-level around family engagement, positively impacting student success. Sites will be located throughout California and include rural, urban, and suburban school districts with high concentrations of English learner (EL) and migrant students.
